COMMERCIAL MOVING AND WORKPLACE SOLUTIONS

Moving workers remote

For companies that need a provider to move workers home into safe and controlled environments, Suddath is performing all packing and IT disconnections while using the appropriate equipment protection to pack their workstations and move them into a work from home setting. Using our Tracker technology, we've been able to move hundreds of employees to work from home, setting them up for maximum productivity in a home space, and inventorying all equipment for later return, when we move them back to their offices.

Social distancing

For essential workers who cannot perform their job tasks remotely, Suddath is providing space planning and relocation services within our customers' offices to ensure safe social distancing between workstations. Suddath is reconfiguring workstations, applying social distancing to common areas like breakrooms and cafeterias, and reducing the number of chairs per tables.

Temporary storage

With furniture and equipment being removed to allow for safe social distancing, there is also a need to temporarily store assets. We're responding to customers' requests for large-scale storage of office furniture – and other inventory that can't be delivered to retailers right now.

Cleaning and wipe down

With employees out of the office, our customers want to ensure they are providing a clean and inviting environment once they return. Suddath is here to support cleaning and wipe down services to ensure employees come back to a more sanitary workspace.

Dorm moves

For colleges and universities, we have created a digital ordering system to help move students out of dorms that are now on lockdown. This digital interface allows the students to submit a request that is executed via video chat to remove their belongings from the dorms, with options for safe storing until they return to school in the fall.

Healthcare support

For healthcare systems that create life-saving products, we're ensuring their employees have safe spaces in which to work, including in-office visuals and signage to support safe distancing in work areas and common zones.

LOGISTICS

Our logistics operations are helping to solve a host of supply chain issues, managing the storage and movement of critical stocks, freeing up distribution center space, and helping with the distribution of essential goods. This includes:

- Engaging with a multi-national manufacturer of luxury goods to establish expanded Free Trade Zone (FTZ) capacity in support of their disrupted supply chain.
- Responding to new customer requests for large-scale storage of finished goods inventory that can't be delivered to retailers right now.
- Expanding e-fulfillment capabilities in support of new customers in multiple markets.
- Providing Continuous Manufacturing operations support for a global healthcare manufacturer.
- Providing specialized final-mile delivery support for medical equipment into healthcare centers.
- Expanding service support to our food/beverage customers who are actively replenishing grocery networks across the region.
