Seven Clever Ways to Declutter Your Home

Hanger Test

Identify clothes that need to be donated by hanging all your clothes in the reverse direction. After you wear an item, return it to the closet with the hanger facing the correct direction. Soon, you'll have a clear picture of which clothes you can easily discard.

The Four-Box Method

As you start to declutter a room, bring four boxes with you marked: trash, give away, keep or relocate. Each item in every room should be placed into one of the four categories without any exception.

Clean Bathrooms

Make sure there is a fresh roll of toilet paper and box of tissues along with hand soap and hand towels. This is a room that potential buyers might actually use, so make sure the bathrooms look their best!

Tidy Kitchen

Clear counters of small appliances and keep towels and potholders in drawers, not dangling from the oven handle. Pack and store rarely used appliances (crockpots, fondue pots, roasters), tools and pans. People need to envision their own stuff in the storage spaces.

Depersonalize

One trick of the trade is to make sure all magnets and family photos are removed from the refrigerator in your kitchen. While these are nice family memories for your family, it is important to depersonalize the space as much as possible so potential buyers can envision their life in your old home.

Curb Appeal

Your front porch and walkway give potential buyers their first impression of your home. House hunters often scout out neighborhoods and drive by listings before they attend open houses. Some easy fixes include repainting your front door in color that contrasts and coordinates with the color of your home. Also, if the front door knocker, knob and other hardware are worn, it is recommended to replace.

Good Landscaping

Plant full-size, bright annuals for immediate color. Don't buy small starter plants; they will look scrawny and won't bring any color to your landscape. Aim for a robust, full garden that implies there is no work for buyers to do, at least in the short run.
