Expert Handling of Specialized Merchandise for Amusement Attractions

Customized Commercial Moving Solutions for High-Value Amusement Attraction Assets

CHALLENGE

Creating the most innovative themed entertainment that brings imaginative worlds to life is a tangled task for this amusement park production house, one that thrives on collaboration and partnership. Its team of designers, artists, architects, writers and more craft extraordinary attractions with unparalleled innovation, creating immersive experiences for guests around the world.

At amusement attractions in Orlando, FL and Frisco, TX, the production company needed well-designed commercial moving to help relocate custom-made items, personal computers and technology within park grounds to warehouses and other properties. Transporting the company's intellectual property, which includes artifacts, character prototypes, costumes, branded merchandise and other miscellaneous items, required strict adherence to regulations. This demanded effective preparation and logistics planning from an experienced commercial moving partner.

SOLUTION

As an accomplished commercial mover that offers office relocation services for businesses across industries, Suddath provided a compatible solution that met the company's unique needs. We crafted relocation plans that were tailored to specific assets, developing a strategy that ensured special care handling of their inventory.

For example, one task was to decommission a museum dedicated to a 1950s TV series based around Old Hollywood's 'First Couple of Comedy,' featuring exact replicas of studio sets, the couple's New York City apartment, hotel suite and notable costumes. The request was to transport all museum inventory from Orlando to its new home in Jamestown, New York.

Early communication with onsite security teams preceded all projects to finalize clearance protocol and provide transparency into inventory movement. We worked alongside the company's security staff to ensure full visibility throughout the journey. In particular cases, we were escorted to and from facilities to ensure sensitive property arrived at its destination intact.

For their technology relocation needs, the company administered IT disconnect and reconnect services while we organized, packed and delivered the equipment to a new location.

RESULTS

- Tailored commercial moves for custom-made assets at multiple locations
- Detailed office decommissioning of a history-making TV series museum
- Comprehensive equipment relocation
